Say Their Names: Honoring Bristol's Black & Indigenous Ancestors

When we call our ancestors by name, we push back against the forces that seek to erase all that they were, and all that we are. Say Their Names is an exhibition honoring Black and Indigenous ancestors through the power of letterpress printmaking. Bold, colorful relief prints created in collaboration with master printmaker, Jacques Bidon, owner of Bidon Community Print & Design Studio in Providence, recognize and lift up free and enslaved people of color who resided in and around present-day Bristol, RI between 1680 and the Civil War.

The archive of 32 prints on display represent a small fraction of more than 1,200 people – old, young, African, African-American, Pokanoket, Narragansett, Wampanoag – whose existence has been documented through the ongoing work of Research BIPOC History (RBH).

A volunteer-led project, RBH seeks to engage the public in honoring ancestral Black and Indigenous communities by making primary source documents accessible and partnering with community stakeholders.

Collectors of Curiosities: A History of the Wunderkammer Exhibit Opening Thursday, May 29, 5:30pm

Please join the Bristol Historical & Preservation Society for the official opening of our newest exhibit, Collectors of Curiosities: A History of the Wunderkammer. Go behind the (metaphorical) curtain to explore what drives humans to collect and what the consequences of collecting might be. How were these collections begun? How did they metamorphose into our modern museums? What do they tell us about ourselves today? The night will be filled with curiosities of all kinds, many from all over the world but some from our own backyard, that haven't been out of storage in more than 4 decades. There will be hands-on-activities for all ages!

The BH&PS will host a handful of Guided Tours and other events throughout the year, so follow us on social media or find us at bhpsri.org to learn more.

The Bristol Historical & Preservation Society seeks to stimulate interest in the history of Bristol, Rhode Island, through education, research, and the collection and preservation of historic objects.

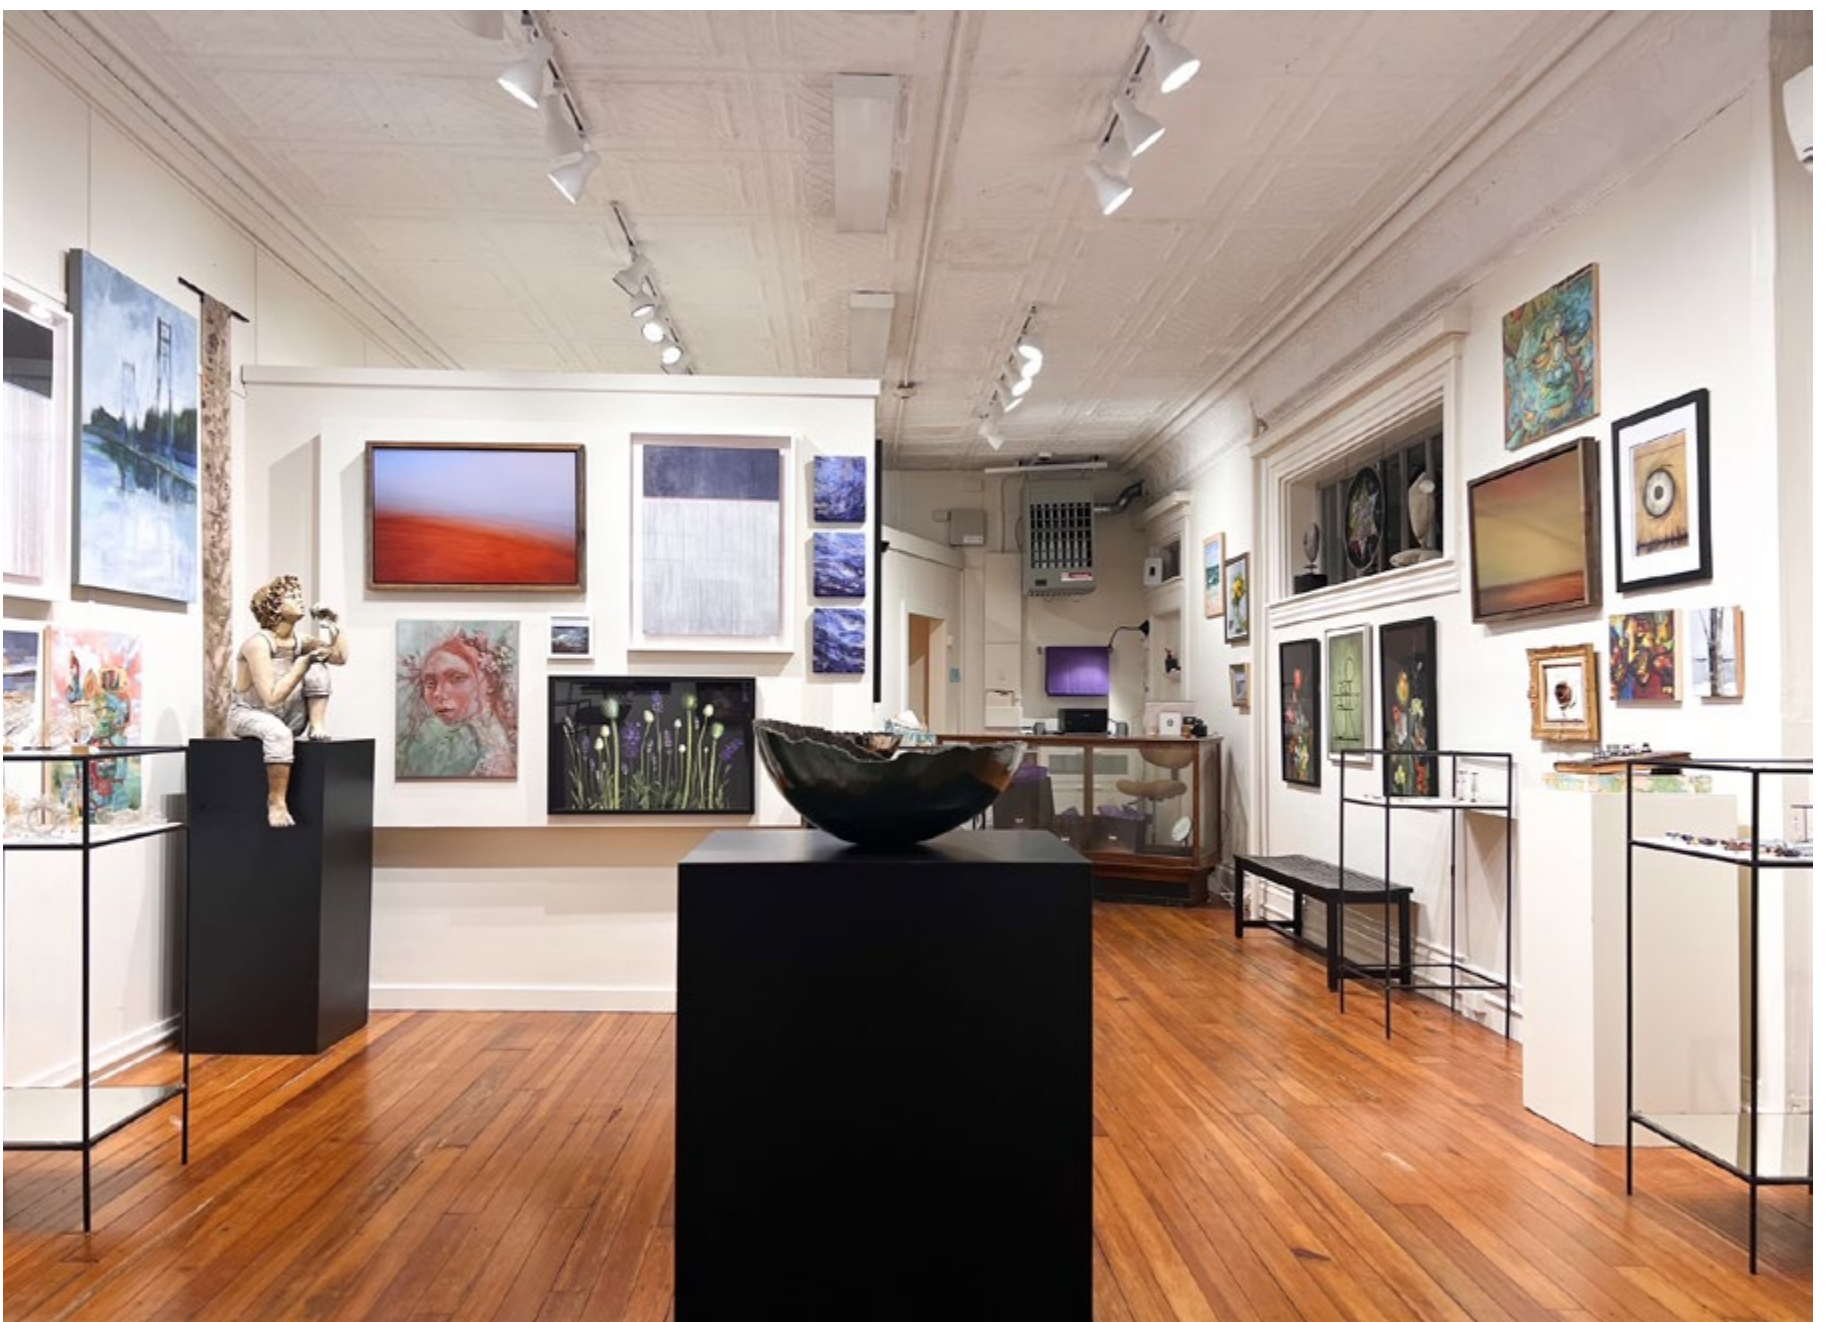

ART NIGHT
BRISTOL WARREN

May 29, 2025 5:30 - 8:30 PM

437 Hope Street, Bristol • 401-336-0831

Located right on Hope Street, Plumb Gallery is a fresh addition to the local art scene. This inviting gallery showcases contemporary work by 18 regional artists in thoughtfully curated collections designed to take the mystery out of art collecting. Whether you're a seasoned collector or a curious passerby, this is a gallery that invites you in, encourages you to linger, and welcomes you to engage.

Tonight marks our very first Art Night Bristol Warren, and we're excited to introduce ourselves to the community. Meet and mingle with the artists, browse the collections, and enjoy refreshments. Don't miss two of the gallery's special features: a curated installation staged to feel like a home, and a small works room filled with unexpected treasures in every size, shape, and price range. We're here to make discovering and collecting art accessible, enjoyable, and personal. See you soon!

Currently on view for Art Night, Bull in the China Shop explores the dynamic interplay of fragility and force. Featuring both functional and nonfunctional ceramics, as well as 2D artworks, the exhibition examines the delicate balance between strength and vulnerability.

A special feature of the exhibition, The Collector's Nook in the Museum's Brick Gallery, offers visitors the opportunity to purchase ceramics and artwork by the exhibiting artists.

The Bristol Art Museum was founded in 1963. BAM's mission is to encourage the creation, promotion, and appreciation of arts through rotating exhibitions and educational opportunities. The main gallery is located at 10 Wardwell St., in Bristol. For additional viewing, visit BAM's Community Gallery at Rogers Free Library.
